A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Our commitment to Smith & Wesson's core handgun business remains steadfast. We have a strong tradition of quality and innovation and we will continue to focus on the development of innovative handguns in response to changing market demands. In recent years, Smith & Wesson has added the Model 500 and 460XVR™ (both recognized respectively by Shooting Industry's Academy of Excellence as Handgun of the Year). We also began using the lightweight material Scandium to make firearms both more efficient and functional.

While we will continue to focus on meeting the needs of the sporting goods segment, we have the opportunity to expand the scope of our company to serve the security and protection arenas. To this end, we have introduced the Smith & Wesson Military & Police pistol, which provides a superior level of performance and safety when measured against other polymer pistols. As we begin to build the Military & Police family, Smith & Wesson has also introduced tactical style rifles, the M&P15 Series. It is our commitment to continue to produce quality firearms and services that will meet the needs of sporting enthusiasts as well as law enforcement and military professionals. Smith & Wesson has embarked on a mission to make this company a global provider of products and services for Safety, Security, Protection and Sport.

SAFETY

A commitment to safety has been a cornerstone of Smith & Wesson history. Whether a law enforcement professional encounters a threatening situation, or a lone wilderness hiker faces extremes in the wild, Smith & Wesson handguns have long provided their owners with the safety they seek. This reputation for personal safety extends to the safe use of our products as well. We have been a leading advocate of the development and use of firearms safety devices, incorporated multiple safety features into each of our handguns, maintained the country's longest-running shooters training facility, promoted the NSSF "Child Safe" gun lock program nationwide, and we currently license numerous safety devices to the shooting sports market.

SECURITY

Since the founding of Smith & Wesson, the Company's name has stood for security, both at home and on the job. For this reason, scores of professionals have relied on the security that a Smith & Wesson firearm provides. Our revolvers and pistols are in use throughout the world's law enforcement community.

PROTECTION

The personal protection that a Smith & Wesson firearm provides has long been the hallmark of our company. Whether they buy Smith & Wesson handguns for personal or professional use, our customers know that our unwavering dedication to reliable product performance provides the confidence needed to protect the home or enforce the law. When homeland security, the protection of a community, or life of a loved one is on the line, Smith & Wesson is the choice of the informed user.

SPORT

Sport shooting is one of our country's longest-running competitive activities, and Smith & Wesson has been there since the 1850s, supporting shooters and hunters with new products and activities to keep the challenge alive. We sponsor a variety of firearms sporting events throughout the country, and we sponsor both Doug Koenig and Jerry Miculek, two of the world's most legendary shooters. Our involvement in shooting events nationwide is helping introduce new participants, in new demographic markets, to the thrill of competitive shooting.

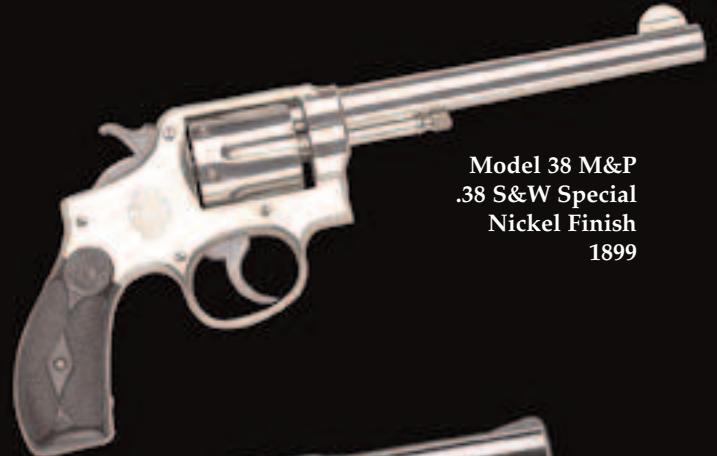

Considered the most important handgun ever produced by the factory, the Smith & Wesson .38 Military & Police revolver is the earliest model that remains in continuous production. Since 1899, over six million units have been produced and sold worldwide to law enforcement organizations, military agencies and to private citizens.

Built in 1899, the .38 Military & Police was originally designed to fire the .38 U.S. Service Cartridge (.38 Long Colt). However, D.B. Wesson wanted the handgun to be more powerful than the Colt and suggested lengthening the cartridge case to increase the powder charge from 18 grains to 21.5 grains and the bullet weight from 150 grains to 158. The new and powerful cartridge would be known as the .38 S&W Special. Everything about this revolver was innovative, from its solid frame and its hand ejector system to the cartridges it fired. The M&P, now known as the Model 10, was an immediate success. The sheer firepower of the handgun, which could shoot through nearly seven and a half inches of solid pine, made it a formidable weapon for crime fighting.

Since 1899, the Smith & Wesson M&P has been carried by law enforcement and military agencies around the world. Never in the history of firearms has any model been in continual production so long, serving the government, law enforcement and the people for which it was designed.

After more than a century of successful service from the Smith & Wesson Military & Police Model 10 revolver, the M&P line is expanding. No longer limited to revolvers, Smith & Wesson will now offer the Military & Police Semi-Automatic Pistol Series. Engineered to become the handgun of choice for global law enforcement and military personnel, the M&P Pistol Series is based on input from over a dozen law enforcement and military organizations. Reflected in nearly every facet of this new design, Smith & Wesson engineers have addressed the evolving needs of military and police. Real world problems dictate that a handgun be dependable in all scenarios. It is lightweight, high capacity, extremely rugged, and capable of functioning flawlessly.

The M&P Pistol Series is available in .40 S&W, 9mm and .357 Sig. and later in compact frame sizes. For durability, the M&P features a Zytel® polymer frame reinforced with a rigid stainless steel chassis and a thru-hardened black melonite® stainless steel barrel and slide giving the pistol a surface hard enough to sharpen a steel blade. Along with a new-age trigger system, featuring a smooth 6.5 lb. trigger pull and an advanced ergonomic design that features an 18-degree grip angle for natural aiming, the M&P has a combination of features that provides reduced felt recoil resulting in unparalleled shootability. The M&P pistol incorporates a number of unique features: three easily interchangeable palmswell grip sizes for various hand sizes, an ambidextrous slide stop, reversible magazine catch and an enlarged trigger guard to accommodate gloved hands. With a universal Picatinny-style equipment rail incorporated for tactical lights and lasers, dovetail mount front sights, steel Novak® Lo-mount carry rear sights (or Tritium sights), the M&P has it all, yet weighs only 24.25 ounces. By answering the need for a more durable, versatile, high-performance pistol, Smith & Wesson once again proves its dedication to our military personnel and police officers. This dedication is as strong now as it was over 100 years ago.

M&P15 Rifle Series

Smith & Wesson®, long known for its dedication to military and law enforcement, has strengthened that commitment by expanding the Military & Police Series with new firearms engineered specifically for defending freedom at home and abroad.

Following on the heels of more than a century of success with the Military & Police Series, the new Smith & Wesson M&P15 rifles are based on the popular semi-automatic AR-15 rifle. These rugged, lightweight rifles chambered in 5.56 mm NATO are built to perform flawlessly under varied conditions.

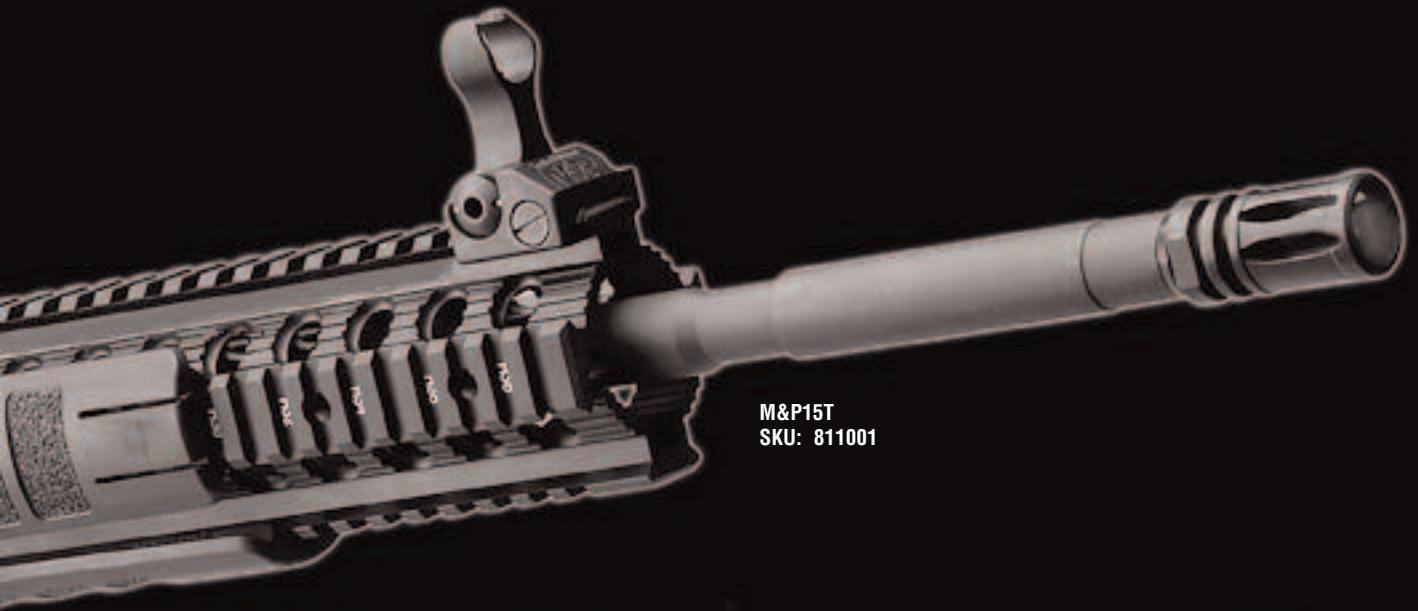

The standard M&P15 offers both the professional and sporting shooter the ideal top-of-the-line semi-automatic rifle. Featuring a removable carry handle and adjustable front and rear sights, the M&P15 offers quick sight acquisition and convenient handling. As tough as it is effective, the rifle comes standard with a chrome-lined 16-inch barrel, bolt carrier and gas key while its six-position adjustable stock easily accommodates varied shooters and shooting positions. The M&P15 is shipped with a hard carry case.

The M&P15A is equipped with a rear folding battle sight in place of the removable carry handle.

New for 2006

To meet military and police needs, Smith & Wesson also offers a tactical model, the M&P15T. This semi-automatic rifle features folding front and rear battle sights along with a MIL-STD 1913 Picatinny Modular Rail System (MRF) supplied by Troy Industries™. The Modular Rail System features Smith & Wesson rail covers and exceeds U.S. Military Rail Adapter System requirements. The free floating design provides superior accuracy, reliability and cooling. As with all M&P15 rifles, the M&P15T also features a chromed-lined barrel, bolt carrier and gas key and comes with a hard carry case.

Model 29

50th Anniversary

New for 2006

Since 1852, Smith & Wesson has maintained a reputation as the premier handgun maker due in large part to innovative design in response to customer need. The world famous Model 29 .44 Magnum® revolver is proof of that creative excellence and quality. For years big-bore handgunners like Elmer Keith wanted a gun to handle the heaviest of loads. In the early 1950s, Smith & Wesson responded by developing a revolutionary handgun to fire a new and powerful cartridge. In 1956, the heavy duty, N-Frame .44 Magnum® revolver was made available to the public and in 1957 was assigned the model number “29”.

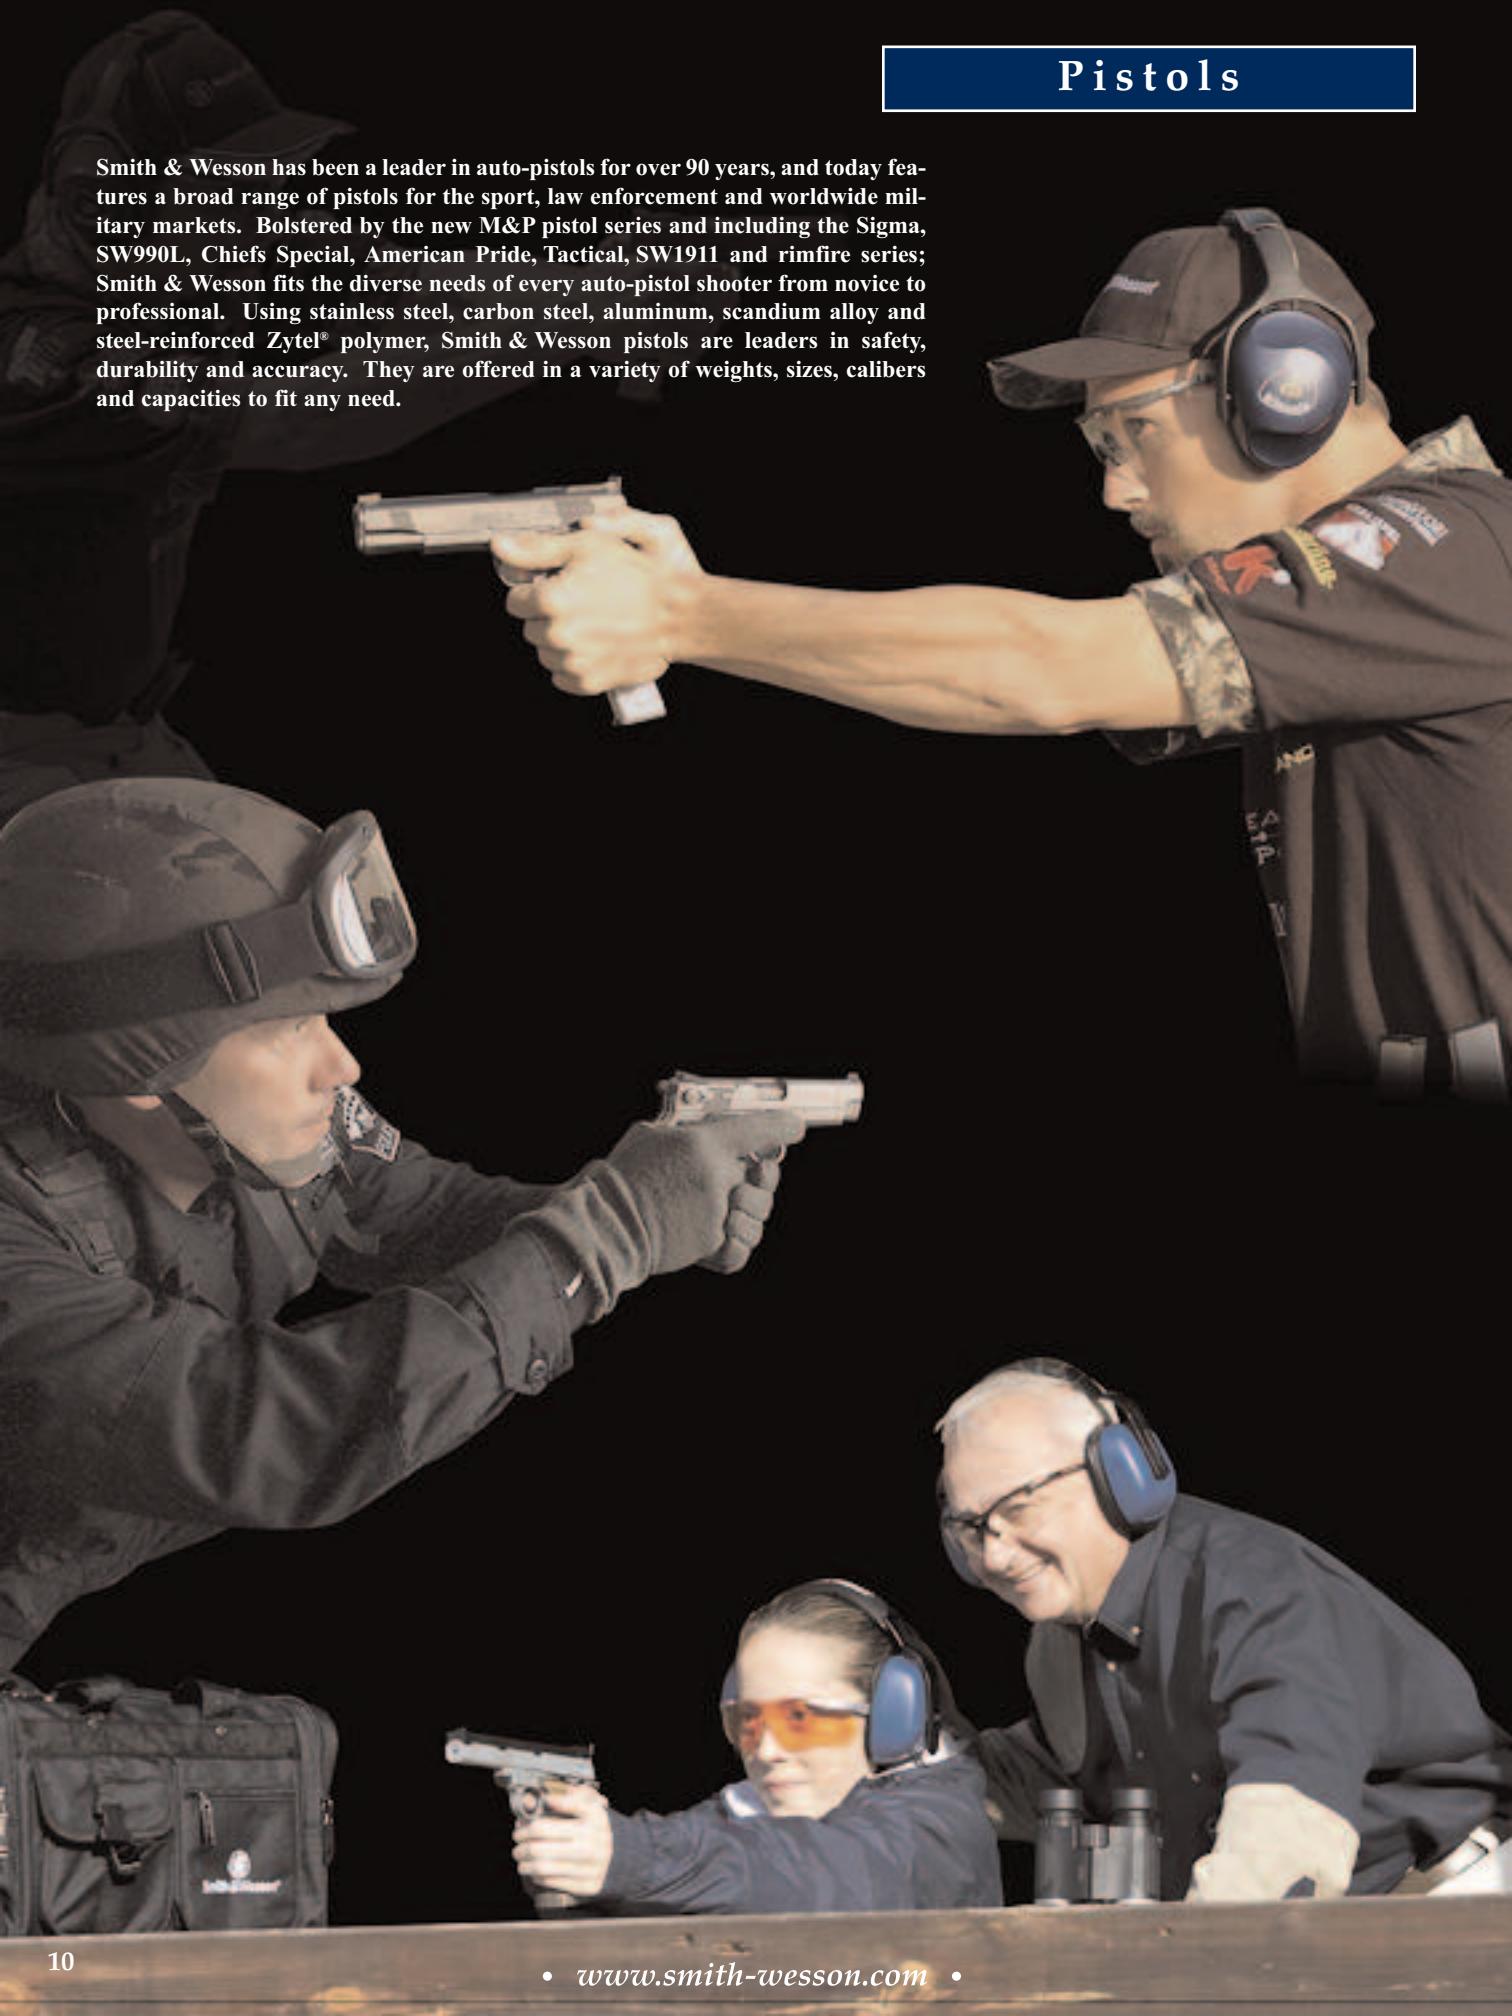

The reputation of the .44 Magnum® Model 29 reached a new pinnacle after the release of the film Dirty Harry starring Clint Eastwood. “Dirty Harry”, Detective Harry Callahan announced the Model 29, .44 Magnum® was “the most powerful handgun in the world.” For the last fifty years, the .44 Magnum® Model 29 has been recognized as a legendary powerhouse.

With modifications and improvements along the way, the Model 29 enjoyed decades of attention until 1999, when it was joined by the Stainless Steel Model 629. In 2005, Field & Stream rated the Model 29 as the 5th best gun ever made, the only handgun to make their top ten. Smith & Wesson honors this revered firearm with a special 50th Anniversary Limited Production offered complete with an engraved 24kt gold plated anniversary logo and mahogany presentation case.

Pistols

Smith & Wesson has been a leader in auto-pistols for over 90 years, and today features a broad range of pistols for the sport, law enforcement and worldwide military markets. Bolstered by the new M&P pistol series and including the Sigma, SW990L, Chiefs Special, American Pride, Tactical, SW1911 and rimfire series; Smith & Wesson fits the diverse needs of every auto-pistol shooter from novice to professional. Using stainless steel, carbon steel, aluminum, scandium alloy and steel-reinforced Zytel® polymer, Smith & Wesson pistols are leaders in safety, durability and accuracy. They are offered in a variety of weights, sizes, calibers and capacities to fit any need.

SW1911 Series

John Moses Browning began his gunsmithing career in Ogden, Utah over 125 years ago. With more than 100 handgun and rifle patents, he is the father of the 1911. The Model 1911 has evolved since those early days. At Smith & Wesson, we have made a commitment to this special pistol and have grown our family of SW1911s to include the widest variety of materials, finishes and unique features.

Long regarded as the ideal concealable, personal defense revolver, the Smith & Wesson Chiefs Special was designed for detectives, plain-clothes personnel and off-duty police officers. Aptly named the .38 Chiefs Special by the International Association of Chiefs of Police at their 1950 conference, the Model 60 J-Frame revolver, a five-shot .38 Special, quickly became the concealed firearm of choice.

Advancements in manufacturing and materials technology have allowed Smith & Wesson to expand the Chiefs Special lineup. In 1965, Smith & Wesson introduced the world's first stainless steel revolver: the Smith & Wesson Model 60, identical to the J-Frame Model 36 except for its stainless steel construction. In the past 56 years, the Chiefs Special has been available in various models and calibers for both revolvers and semi-automatic pistols. Currently, Smith & Wesson offers Chiefs Special pistols in 9 mm and .45 ACP.

No longer just a law enforcement favorite, private handgun owners regard the Chiefs Special as a favorite handgun for personal protection. By delivering an equally powerful handgun in a smaller, easily handled and concealable package — an idea suggested by former Smith & Wesson President Carl R. Hellstrom in 1949 — the Chiefs Special continues to answer the call for smaller-framed handguns capable of handling more powerful loads.

Doug Koenig

Doug Koenig is considered by many to be the world's most accurate pistol shooter. The first handgun he ever bought was a Smith & Wesson Model 686. That was the beginning of a remarkable winning relationship between Doug Koenig and Smith & Wesson. He began competitive shooting in 1989 and within four years had won the Bianchi Cup (2 titles) and the World IPSC Championship. At the age of 20, he became the first shooter to fire a perfect score (1920) at the National Action Pistol Championships. Doug has won the Master's International Pistol Match 11 times and since its inception, has been the only competitor to fire a perfect score (5 perfect scores in 11 championships). In fact, Doug has fired more perfect scores in the sport of action pistol than any other shooter in the world since his first perfect score was shot in 1990.

He is truly a master of the sport. Doug has come to represent the best of Smith & Wesson ... accuracy, reliability and performance. Doug's choice of handgun is the Smith & Wesson Model SW1911.

Jerry Miculek

The first time you see Jerry Miculek in action you are in disbelief. Is it a trick? Did it really happen? Only in slow-motion can you really appreciate his skill. With more championships than any other living revolver shooter, Jerry is known as the fastest revolver shooter in the world. His record of twelve rounds – two 6 round loads with a reload in between – in under three seconds is unequalled. Jerry has won the International Revolver Championships for the last 13 years, holds six World Shoot-Off Championships and earned six revolver speed shooting world records. It is a record of accomplishment that stands above all the rest. He chose Smith & Wesson because it is “amazingly fast, accurate, and above all else, 100% reliable.” If you are lucky enough to see him in action, you will be in awe... and notice that he shoots a Smith & Wesson Model 625.

Revolvers

Smith & Wesson revolvers are without equal. They offer a unique combo of versatility and accuracy. The reasons for selecting a Smith & Wesson revolver are fairly straightforward. Smith & Wesson revolvers are versatile, accurate, safe, economical, easy to shoot and a pleasure to own. From plinking a tin can to handgun hunting, Smith & Wesson has a revolver to fit every need. The tradition of innovation and quality began in 1852 when Horace Smith and D.B. Wesson teamed to build their first revolver. The company has been building the highest quality, most dependable handguns ever since. With five basic frames from which to choose, Smith & Wesson has a wider selection of models and calibers available than any other major manufacturer in the world. The small J-Frames are well known for their dependable concealability. The K-Frames have been the standard for all types of shooters since their introduction over 100 years ago. The L-Frames are designed to withstand the abuse of thousands of rounds of .357 Magnum®. The N-Frames are built for power and have included such classic models as the .44 Magnum®. The X-Frame with enough stopping power to handle the most dangerous game. They are accurate and reliable right out of the box and adapt to a wider range of shooters and shooting sports than any other handgun from any other major manufacturer. The decision to buy quality in the form of a Smith & Wesson revolver is one of the best decisions a shooter can make.

Small Frame (J)

In the years following World War II, law enforcement officers needed a small, yet powerful handgun that could be easily concealed for plain-clothes work. The .32 Hand Ejector, or as it was better known in the factory, the I-Frame had been a good revolver since the late 1800s, but was limited to firing less powerful cartridges. The Smith & Wesson J-Frame, created in 1949, did something only the bigger guns had done until then: fire the potent .38 Special cartridge.

Since then, the J-Frame has become the most popular small-frame personal defense revolver available, capable of firing .38 Special loads or the much more powerful .357 Magnum with decades of reliable performance to its credit. Three hammer designs are available: exposed Chiefs Special®, fully enclosed Centennial and the hammer-shrouded Bodyguard®. Caliber offerings include .22 rimfire, .38 S&W +P and .357 Magnum®.

Smith & Wesson Mountain Guns

Since 1989, serious outdoorsmen and women have depended on Smith & Wesson Mountain Guns when venturing into the back country. These limited-run revolvers have been offered in several calibers and finishes over the years. All have incorporated a slender, 4" tapered barrel, pinned black front sight, black blade rear sight and are drilled and tapped for mounting optics. They also feature the smooth double action and crisp single action trigger pulls that customers have come to expect from Smith & Wesson revolvers.

Smith & Wesson will continue to produce limited runs of Mountain Guns each year in different calibers and finishes. Currently, Smith & Wesson is offering the stainless steel Model 625 Mountain Gun in .45 Colt. As always, these guns will be available for a limited time from your Smith & Wesson Authorized Dealer.

If you are a collector of Smith & Wesson Mountain Guns, please check www.smith-wesson.com or visit a Smith & Wesson Authorized Dealer later this year to learn which other new Mountain Guns will be available in 2006.

Medium Frame (K)

Without a doubt, one of the most important developments for Smith & Wesson was the K-Frame. It was a new size of revolver built specifically to handle a new size of cartridge. The first Smith & Wesson K-Frame was introduced in 1899 and debuted as the .38 Military & Police. It is now known as the Model 10 and is chambered in .38 S&W Special.

Medium Frame (K)

Since its introduction, the K-Frame has been a favorite of target shooters as well as military and police shooters. In the 1930s, at the suggestion of competitive shooters, the K-Frame was offered in .22, .32 and .38 caliber rounds. The models offered were known as the K-22 Outdoorsman, K-32 Outdoorsman and K-38 Outdoorsman. After World War II, the K-Frame target series was redesigned with ribbed barrels and an anti-backlash feature and was known as the K-22 Masterpiece, the K-32 Masterpiece and the K-38 Masterpiece. In the 1950s, the K-Frame was redesigned to handle heavier loads, giving shooters the option of increased power. To meet the demands of law enforcement officers, the Smith & Wesson Model 19 Combat Magnum® debuted in 1955, a K-frame revolver that was chambered to fire the powerful .357 Magnum® cartridge. Today, the K-Frame is available in both .22 Long Rifle and .38 S&W Special.

Large Frame (N)

Smith & Wesson's large frame revolvers are a favorite choice for handgun hunters, competitive shooters and revolver enthusiasts. These revolvers are available in a variety of chamberings – .41 Magnum®, .44 Magnum, 10mm and .45 ACP as well as several barrel lengths, depending upon your need. Among the large frames is the Model 625, Jerry Miculek's choice when setting his record of shooting twelve rounds – two 6 round loads with a reload in between – in under three seconds.

X-Large Frame (X)

Smith & Wesson's X-Frame revolvers are the most powerful production revolvers ever built. The Model 500, Model 460XVR™ and Model 460V provide the handgun hunter with the kind of power needed to take any big game species on any continent. The X-Frame revolution was set into motion in 2003 with the debut of the 500 S&W Magnum. The all-stainless frame and two-piece barrel lifted industry standards and handgun tolerances to new heights. The 500's massive 5-round cylinder holds a round powerful enough to stop the largest game. The 460XVR was released in 2005 and sports the highest muzzle velocity of any production revolver on earth. The Model 460XVR launches 200-grain, .460 S&W Magnum® bullets. The X-Frame barrels are equipped with compensators to reduce apparent felt recoil. The X-Frames from Smith & Wesson allow shooters to pursue any game animal.

Laser Engraving

The tradition of personalizing firearms has existed almost as long as firearms themselves. From the very beginning, proud owners have inscribed the wood and metal of their firearm with symbols of significance. Whether creating a family heirloom, commemorating a special date, event or accomplishment, laser engraving adds another dimension and significance of value to any Smith & Wesson revolver or pistol.

Today, owners of Smith & Wesson handguns can select from a series of scrollwork, lettering, and animal motifs that can be laser applied to their gun. This laser engraving, designed with the assistance of Smith & Wesson master craftsmen, can enhance most any handgun with a design that reflects what is most important to its owner. Quick and very affordable, LaserSmith technology allows handguns to stand out from the crowd while adding an element of elegance and sophistication to a favorite firearm. From initials on the slide of the pistol or scrollwork on the cylinder of a favorite revolver to an image of wildlife on the side plate of a hunting revolver, there is a laser engraving style and subject for everyone.

Laser engraving can be done on any carbon or stainless steel component of your Smith & Wesson handgun, however small alloy frame revolvers with stainless or carbon steel barrels and cylinders cannot be engraved. Make your handgun as unique as you are with Smith & Wesson laser engraving.

Custom Engraving

Custom Engraving

For more than 150 years, the quality and performance of Smith & Wesson firearms have been recognized throughout the world. True masterpieces in their own right, they were often enhanced by custom engraving to create a work of art that reflected the artistic eye of the engraver and the passion of the owner.

Today, as a Smith & Wesson owner, you can have a work of art that is uniquely yours and enhances the value of the steel canvas on which it is created. Whether on a classic firearm you own or a new revolver or pistol from Smith & Wesson, we will create a work of art that is one of a kind. A limited edition or first run handgun from Smith & Wesson will be even more collectible and valuable when enhanced by the art of the master engraver at Smith & Wesson.

An engraved Smith & Wesson is more than the sum of the parts - the personal design, precision craftsmanship, the artistic application of precious metals - all combined to create an object that is far more than the individual elements. Each custom engraved firearm is one-of-a-kind sculpture that reflects the skill and vision of the master engraver and the appreciation of the artistic expression of the owner.

Only Smith & Wesson can provide the added value of authenticity, direct from the manufacturer.

Quite simply, there is no equal.

Lever-Lock
Handcuff

Since 1920, Smith & Wesson has produced quality handcuffs using the same engineering, materials and workmanship as in the famous Smith & Wesson handguns. Fabricated from the finest carbon or stainless steel, the internal locks of these handcuffs are heat-treated and the ratchets are smooth for ease of cuffing. All of the Smith & Wesson handcuffs come with a double locking system to prevent tampering and provide that extra measure of security. Pin lock models feature a push-pin that provides a means to prevent tampering and further tightening which could cause injury. Each and every pair of Smith & Wesson handcuffs and other restraints meet or exceed the demanding National Institute of Justice test for strength and reliability, and all models can be customized to fit agency requirements and specifications. Whether it be different chain lengths, mix-and-match cuffs or laser engraving, Smith & Wesson can take care of even the most unique requests. The Model 1 Universal cuffs feature not only the push pin locking system but also open 12% larger and close 11% smaller than standard cuffs. From the original Model 100 Series handcuffs to the unmatched durability of restraint chains and leg irons, Smith & Wesson has proven to be the world leader in hand cuffs and restraints.

New for 2006, Smith & Wesson introduces the M&P Lever-Lock 100, the industry's first significant innovation in metal handcuffs in years. The M&P Lever-Lock Handcuff™ requires no key to activate the double-lock feature, eliminating the need for officers to search for a key while securing the cuff. This new model unlocks the same as other Smith & Wesson handcuffs using the standard handcuff key.
