STOEGER HISTORY

Since 1924 the name Stoeger has been associated with both fine firearms and as publisher of the Shooter's Bible.

Stoeger products enjoy a solid reputation for affordable quality because of the technology and expertise that Benelli USA has integrated within Stoeger's manufacturing processes. Offering a complete line-up of shotguns of every variety and gauge that include double-barrel over & unders, side-by-sides, semi-autos, and pump-actions, Stoeger presents products for the hunter and shooter, designed for every occasion.

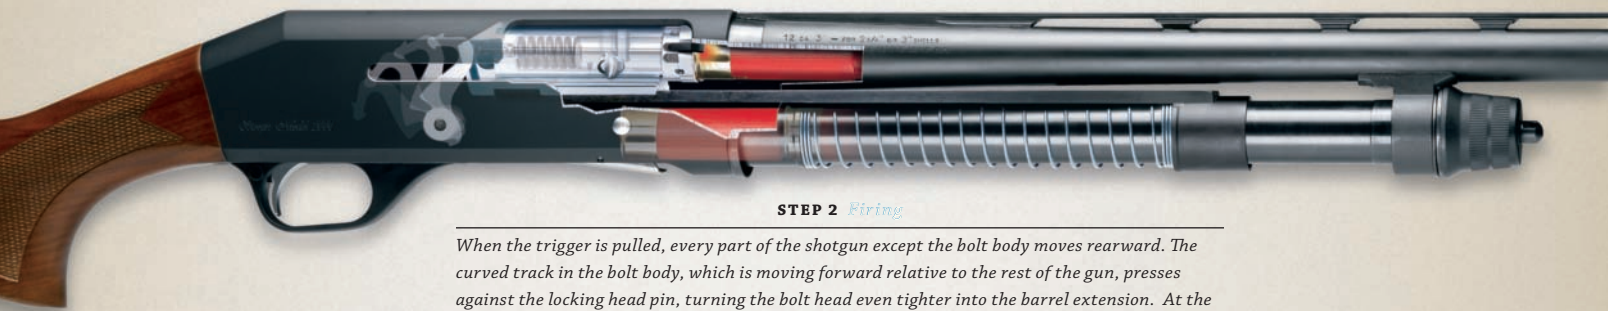

Late in 1923, Austrian immigrant Alexander F. Stoeger issued a price list from his New York City shop announcing that he was the "sole authorized importer for the United States and Canada of the genuine Mauser and Luger Arms and Ammunition." Among the first firearms sold by Stoeger were German Luger pistols.

In 1924-25, Stoeger issued his first formal catalog adding information about the shooting sports, including specifications for buckshot and lead balls and a listing of the state hunting seasons for various types of game. Although it lacked the title, this was the first edition of the Shooter's Bible. By 1931, the catalog proclaimed that the company was "the only exclusive gun house in America" and even offered customers service in repairing firearms. In 1948 the Stoeger catalog was formally titled the Shooter's Bible. In the 1990s, Stoeger was purchased by the Finnish rifle manufacturer Sako and in 2000, Sako, along with Stoeger, was acquired by Beretta Holdings S.p.A. At that time, Stoeger Industries, Inc. was placed under the ownership of Benelli USA.

STEP 1 Chambering

As the bolt assembly moves into battery, the locking head pin moves along a curved track in the bolt body to rotate the steel bolt head into engagement with the steel barrel extension. The cartridge drop lever is down, it's red dot indicating that the gun is cocked.

STEP 2 Firing

When the trigger is pulled, every part of the shotgun except the bolt body moves rearward. The curved track in the bolt body, which is moving forward relative to the rest of the gun, presses against the locking head pin, turning the bolt head even tighter into the barrel extension. At the same time, the inertia spring is compressed between bolt head and body. The cartridge drop lever moves up, allowing a shell to move from the magazine to the carrier.

STEP 3 Recoil

Near the end of the recoil cycle, chamber pressure drops to a safe level and the gun's rearward motion slows. The heavy inertia spring then thrusts the bolt assembly rearward, unlocking the rotating bolt head, extracting the spent shell from the chamber and pulling it against the ejector.

STEP 4 Ejection

As the empty shell exits the receiver, the energy of the moving bolt assembly re-cocks the hammer and compresses the recoil spring on the magazine tube. The recoil spring then thrusts the bolt assembly forward lifting the on-coming shell into position and chambering a fresh cartridge. The gun is ready to fire again...in a fraction of a second!

INERTIA DRIVEN®

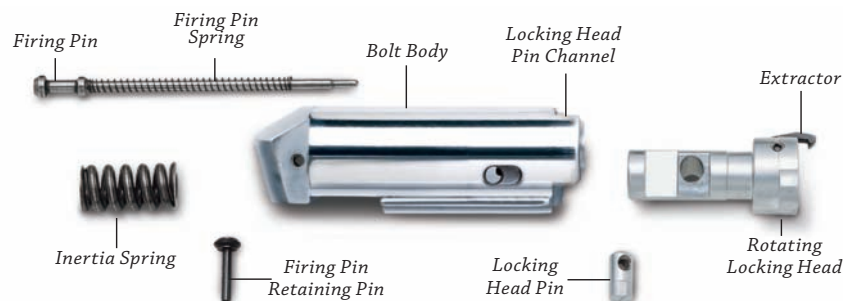

INERTIA SYSTEM

The advanced inertia technology utilizes a bolt with fewer moving parts and eliminates the gas cylinders.

The advanced inertia technology that has proven itself so reliable for many years, powers the same system that drives Stoeger's semi-auto shotguns.

The Inertia Driven® logo proclaims that the Model 2000 action features the patented inertia bolt with its rotating locking head – the same system that has given inertia operated shotguns their reputation for being among the fastest cycling, most reliable shotguns in the world.

The revolutionary inertia bolt has fewer moving parts and eliminates the gas cylinders, O-rings and other complicated parts of traditional gas-operating systems. It also keeps the gun's action cleaner, since gas and burnt powder are kept in the barrel where they belong. The Inertia Driven® system is the most reliable, cleanest and fastest shooting system with fewer parts for slimness, lightweight balance and ease of maintenance, and it's available in the hard-working Model 2000.

INERTIA OPERATING SYSTEM

No operating system is faster or more reliable than the inertia recoil system used in the Model 2000. A rotary bolt head gives a vault-like lockup for smooth, secure shooting....Faster... Cleaner...Fewer parts for ease of maintenance.

INERTIA DRIVEN

MODEL 2000

No other semi-automatic in its price range even compares to the Model 2000.

The Stoeger Model 2000 is licensed to use Benelli's Inertia Driven® operating system – the heart of the world's most prestigious and reliable autoloaders. The Stoeger Model 2000 is Inertia Driven® with only two moving parts in the bolt: the bolt body and the rotating locking head. Simplicity ensures reliability and the Model 2000 is quickly gaining a reputation as the most reliable semi-automatic on the market in its price range.

Unlike common gas-operated guns whose fore-ends conceal pistons, O-rings, valves and other moving parts, the Inertia Driven® system is primarily contained inside the receiver. The results? A trimmer fore-end, better balance, more reliable operation and the ability to fire everything from 1½ oz. field and target loads to the heaviest 3" waterfowl loads without adjustments. And because propellant gas isn't vented from the barrel into the operating system, Inertia Driven® guns like the Model 2000 stay cleaner, even after hundreds of shots. Even under the toughest conditions, your new Model 2000 will keep on firing!

Reliability, versatility and value are what you expect in a semi-automatic shotgun and no other semi-automatic in its price range even compares to the Model 2000.

The Model 2000 comes with a red bar front sight that helps the shooter pick up the target even in the low light often found when hunting.

The Model 2000 bolt assembly includes the inertia spring and rotating locking head, two features that distinguish Stoeger semi-automatics from the competition.

A cavity cut in the buttstock of the Model 2000 accommodates an optional mercury-filled recoil reducer.

P-350 PUMP

Designed to fire any and all 12-gauge ammunition from light target loads to 3½" magnums.

The Stoeger P-350 Pump Shotgun is a no nonsense, rugged and reliable hunting gun designed to fire any and all 12-gauge ammunition from 2¾" field loads to 3½" magnums. Whether it's dove loads in September or steel shot in November, the Stoeger P-350 will digest them all without so much as a hiccup. And there's even an optional 13-ounce recoil reducer that screws right onto the tail of the stock bolt to tame the kick of the heavy magnums. The P-350 fore-end assembly features twin action bars for smoother, non-binding cycling.

There are nine different models of the Stoeger P-350 to choose from—an 18½" barreled home security model (see p.23), the Max-4 HD™ camo gun for waterfowlers, an APG HD™ for all around hunting, or the standard, all-purpose black synthetic. In addition, every P-350 field gun comes with five choke tubes, including an extra-full extended turkey choke, so no matter what your game, the Stoeger P-350 has you covered. No other pump action shotgun comes close to the P-350 especially when considering the price.

P-350 — 12-GA, 3½" MSRP $309
Black synthetic

The P-350's fore-end is ergonomically designed to fit the hand comfortably with distinct ridges that provide a positive gripping surface with or without gloves and regardless of temperature or weather conditions.

Installing the optional mercury-filled recoil reducer adds 13-ounces of recoil-killing weight on the synthetic stock. It's easy to remove when firing lighter loads or carrying the P-350 over long distances, then put it back in for turkey or waterfowl season.

CONDOR COMPETITION & COMBO

The Condor Competition is equally at home on a skeet field, trap range or sporting clays course.

The Stoeger Condor Competition over & under target gun is nicely balanced, quick handling and has the stylish lines of guns that cost three times as much or more. Equally at home on a sporting clays course, skeet field or trap range, the Condor Competition in 12- or 20-gauge, features ported barrels, a gold selective trigger and automatic ejectors. The stock has an adjustable comb and is available cast for either right or left hand shooters and configured with a matching palm swell.

The Condor Competition is also offered in a two-barrel combo set with 12- and 20-gauge barrels that fit the same receiver. Both barrels measure 30" for consistent balance and feel. Like the Condor Competition, the Combo stock comes with either a right- or left-hand palm swell versions to accommodate right- or left-hand shooters.

Elegant in understated style, the smooth, blued receiver sports a high-polish finish. The safety, positioned on the tang, also serves as a barrel selector. The Condor Competition's attractively figured stock is fashioned from American walnut, and comes with an adjustable comb, which adjusts both vertically and laterally and comes at no extra cost. Cut-checkering graces the pistol grip and fore-end for a positive gripping surface.

The fully adjustable comb on the Condor Competition allows you to custom fit the stock to your personal stock dimensions for whatever target game you favor.

A distinctive palm swell for both left- and right-handed shooters gives the Condor Competition a real custom feel. You'll swear the Condor Competition was made for you.

Ported barrels come standard on the Condor Competition. Barrel porting lets gas escape through the top of the barrel to help keep barrel climb to a minimum for a quick second shot.

COACH GUN SUPREME

The Coach Gun Supreme is an integral part of Cowboy Action Shooting, but with screw-in chokes it's also a handy field gun.

If your six-guns have ivory grips and your Model 73 sports engraving, you need a scattergun that makes a statement—you need a Coach Gun Supreme. Traditionalists will want the classic blued receiver and barrels, while more progressive shooters might lean towards the stainless receiver that provides corrosion resistance and an attractive contrast with the blued barrels.

The polished nickel-plated model was quite the rage in frontier times and is still eye-catching and distinctive at any range. No matter which one you choose, you'll have a striking and distinctive firearm in your hands.

All Coach Gun Supremes come with AA-Grade gloss walnut stocks and beaver tail fore-ends. All three models are fitted with a soft rubber recoil pad and feature extensive cut-checkering in a border-point pattern. An attractive trigger guard gives the Coach Gun Supreme a more refined appearance with smooth curves that complement the double triggers. The 12- and 20-gauge Coach Gun Supremes come with improved cylinder and modified choke tubes and a choke wrench.

Although the Coach Gun Supreme was designed with Cowboy Action shooters in mind, the screw-in chokes make it a great handling field gun as well.

The 12- and 20-gauge Coach Gun Supremes come with improved cylinder and modified choke tubes and wrench. The .410 models have fixed improved cylinder and modified chokes.

COACH GUNS

The stagecoach guard's gun of choice in the frontier days still provides a potent home defense gun today.

The sawed-off shotgun, romanticized in hundreds of Hollywood Westerns as the stagecoach guard's weapon of choice, is an integral part of the fast growing sport of Cowboy Action Shooting. Competitors are required to shoot a six-gun, a rifle and a shotgun in every match, so the demand for a value-priced, short-barreled scattergun led Stoeger to develop the Coach Gun.

Available in blue, matte nickel or a polished nickel-plated finish and wearing an American walnut stock and fore-end, the Coach Gun is as handsome as it is affordable. For those who prefer a distinctive appearance, the Nickel Coach Gun is available with a polished nickel-plated receiver and barrels and a black-finished hardwood stock. The Silverado Coach Gun features a matte nickel receiver and barrels and sports a satin-finished American walnut stock that comes with either a pistol grip or straight-style grip. The Silverado is the perfect blend of style and performance.

The short-barreled Coach Gun also makes a potent home defense gun and is chambered for 2¾" and 3" shells in 12-gauge, 20-gauge, and .410 bore. So whether you're headed for a competition shootout at a modern day OK Corral or just want a little security to help you sleep better at night, the Stoeger Coach Gun is the right shotgun at the right price.

An attractive trigger guard gives the Coach Gun Supreme a more refined appearance, with smooth curves that complement the double triggers.

UPLANDER

If you don't want to spend a small fortune on a double shotgun, then the Stoeger Uplander may be just the gun for you.

The first side-by-side shotgun was invented in England, even before the first shotgun shell was ever conceived. This ageless design has not only been around a long time, but in recent years it has enjoyed a renewed popularity. If you don't want to wait years for an expensive British double, nor spend a small fortune, the Stoeger Uplander just might be the gun for you.

Stoeger Uplanders come plain or fancy, with traditional double or single triggers. Stocked with American walnut, the Uplander features either a pistol or straight-grip, English-style stock. The Uplander is available in two different grades; the field grade and the eye-catching Uplander Supreme. There's even a youth model with a 13" LOP. For connoisseurs, combo sets are offered in 12-/20-gauge and 20-/28-gauge configurations.

So, whether kicking up rabbits in the back forty or bagging woodcock in alder thickets, there's an Uplander to meet your shooting needs that will also fit your wallet.

UPLANDER SHORT STOCK — 20-GA or .410, 3" MSRP $369

Depending on the model, Uplanders come with either a single trigger or sturdy traditional double triggers for optimum reliability.

All of Stoeger's Uplander side-by-side models come standard with extractors.

The receiver is precision machined to exacting tolerances to ensure that the Uplander will hold up year-after-year no matter how much it's used.
