With its new and improved optics and user controls, the D-121M offers numerous built in features, including automatic brightness control, bright source protection and a low battery indicator. In addition, it incorporates a high power infrared illuminator that can be turned on or off independently. The D-121M uses fiber optics to display its low battery warning and IR operational mode within the user's field of view.

The D-121M can be used in conjunction with a camera or camcorder as a low light image enhancer. It can also be used as a weapon scope in conjunction with an external aiming device.

BLACK HILLS AMMUNITION

from FULTON ARMORY

Making ammunition is serious business. We do not know how each round might be used. Black Hills cannot afford to build lower quality ammunition to the standard of "good enough," because we don't know which rounds will be used for informal target practice and which rounds will be part of that moment when skill, preparation and a proper selection of defensive tools will decide the fate of a citizen, a policeman or a soldier.

Serious people realize that their fate sometimes rides on the choice they've made. Those people choose Black Hills Ammunition.
