

AMERICAN
 GUN CABINET
 Handcrafted in the USA

The Design

Our gun cabinets were designed based on the simple premise that the cabinet should fit the gun. Your gun cabinet should be as unique as your guns. Maybe you're an avid collector, a serious sportsman, or both, we have the rare cabinet you have been looking for. With several custom designs and finishes to choose from, we have a gun cabinet even your decorator will love. Our gun cabinets were designed to last a lifetime and than some. We will even build a cabinet to your specifications.

The Wood

American Gun Cabinet selects only the finest oak, cherry, maple, and mahogany. We use FAS select lumber. We reselect for color and grain match. Sometimes visible mineral stains and color variations are natural occurrences when using solid wood. Every effort is made to minimize natural color variations and mineral stains. The wood is then sanded smooth utilizing the latest sanding technology found at only the finest furniture manufacturers in the world. By starting with the finest products available and combining it with cutting edge techniques we are now ready to continue our journey.

The Craftmanship

We do not stock gun cabinets. Every gun cabinet is made for that special individual who has reached that certain milestone in their life. Tremendous attention to detail is given to all aspects of the building process. Old-world glue and biscuit techniques are part of every cabinet, using virtually no nails. Hand carved moldings and onlays are part of every cabinet design. Meticulously sand, sand some more, and then sand again to hide joints.

The Finish

We've spent considerable time testing and creating the perfect color combinations (and still do!) Then by utilizing the latest in deep penetrating stains, heavy bodied glazes, and catalyzed top coats we arrive at a truly outstanding finish. Flyspecking and distressing combines with the old-world technique of hand staining complete the truly remarkable process.

Mahogany

Mahogany

New model automobiles were originally carved, full sized, entirely out of mahogany.

Depending on origin, the color is a deep golden brown or dark red. Very strong grains and accents such as curly, blister, or stripe. Very expensive and stains to a beautiful luster. A truly incredible wood.

Cherry

Cherry was used as early as 400 B.C. by the Greeks and Romans for furniture making. It is an elegant, multi-colored hardwood. Natural or light stains accent these color variations. Small gum pockets, streaks, pin knots, and figures are common. Cherry wood will darken or “deepen” With age. This high end wood has an exceptionally lustrous appearance and tremendous character. The grain is more subdued than some other hardwoods.

Maple

Used in the manufacture of airplane propellers in the 1920's maple is a strong, close-grained wood that is off-white in color, although it also contains light hues of yellow-brown and pink. Hard maple occasionally contains small mineral, light tan or reddish-tinged streaks that will darken with stain. It is usually straight grained, but can be wavy or even curly.

Oak

Oak

The most abundant of the U.S. hardwoods, red oak trees live an average of 300 years. Red oak has a prominent open grain that ranges in color from white to yellow and reddish-brown. Red oak is sometimes streaked with green, yellow, or black mineral deposits and may vary from a closely knit grain to a sweeping arch pattern. Strong and durable are some of the qualities of this reasonably priced wood
